

Welcome to Shugrue's

We have formatted our wine list to enhance your dining pleasure.

Our wines are listed in a progressive manner. Lighter and fruitier styles are on the top of each category progressing into a medium bodied and dryer style, moving to the bottom, the wines are dry, more complex and robust.

Bon Appetite!

History of the London Bridge

The founder of Lake Havasu, Robert P. McCulloch Sr, purchased the London Bridge on April 18, 1968. The purchase price was $2,460,000. The cost to have it dismantled in London was $1.2 million and was included in the purchase price. The shipping and reconstruction costs ran approximately $2.7 million, bringing the total price tag to $5.16 million.

After shipping from London to the port of Long Beach, CA., the 10,276 numbered granite blocks, weighing 22 million pounds, began arriving by truck in Lake Havasu on July 9th, 1968. The world's "Largest Puzzle" was completed three years later and dedicated on October 10, 1971.

The Bridge was originally designed by Scotsman, John Rennie, and built over the Thames River. It was dedicated on August 1, 1831 and would still stand in London if today's modern technology of reinforced concrete for footings had been available at the time of its first construction. It had been sinking into the Thames River bed at the rate of one inch every eight years, thus the nursery rhyme "London Bridge is Falling Down".

Robert McCulloch's "Centerpiece" bridge was reconstructed on dry land (the only bridge ever constructed on dry land), and then the channel was dredged so water could flow in from the main body of the lake. Thus creating the island and the channel.

The purchase price included the lampposts made from French cannons captured during the 1815 Battle of Waterloo. Some of the granite blocks are marked from exploding German shells fired during the Battle of Britain in WWII.

Robert McCulloch brought a big piece of history to Lake Havasu and the fact that it is known as "The World's Largest and Most Expensive Antique" indeed makes it the perfect "Centerpiece". The City of Lake Havasu owns the London Bridge.
